Structure Definition

Structure definition

Object of Structure definition defines certain non-zero number of columns (items). Each item holds particular configuration parameters, which are optionally used in objects of Structured variable or Database types.

The position of structure definition and the scale of configuration parameters in regard to structure item is shown in the figure (section 1).

The parent of all objects of Structure definition type is the object STRUCTSDEF.

Related pages:

Structure definition - configuration dialog box
Predefined structure definitions