

Installation Directory (Linux)

During installation, the installer copies the components of the D2000 application server components to the selected directory.

These form the following directory structure:

directory	description
.sys/	system directory
app/	directory of D2000 applications bin/	directory with program modules and scripts java/	directory with JRE and java system libraries log/	log directory
msg/	language support files
tcl/war	WEB application Thin client